Re: Ex parte communication, Docket MB 04-62

Dear Ms. Dortch:

Representatives of the 4C Entity, LLC ("4C") met on September 7, 2004, with representatives of the Media Bureau to confirm 4C's understanding of one aspect of the Federal Communications Commission's Order, released August 12, 2004, in relation to the above-captioned docket. In that Order, the Commission approved 4C's Content Protection for Recordable Media for Video ("CPRM for Video") as a digital recording method for use with Marked Content and Unscreened Content pursuant to the Commission's broadcast flag regulations, 47 CFR § 73.9008, on a "media-by-media basis." Order at ¶ 68. The purpose of 4C's discussion with the Media Bureau representatives was to confirm that the Commission's media-by-media approval in the Order included all media types that were included in 4C's March 1, 2004 certification submission and subsequent submissions in this docket. Those media types are: DVD-RAM, DVD-R, DVD-RW, SD Cards, Secure Compact Flash, and Microdrive™. During the discussion, the Media Bureau staff confirmed 4C's understanding in this regard.

Attending this meeting were: for 4C: the undersigned as counsel to 4C (attending in person), Jeffrey Lawrence (Intel, attending by telephone), and Michael
